QUARTERLY

Dr. E. Eugene Poston

Eighth President of Gardner-Webb College

The temptation comes to me to use my page in a eulogy to Dr. Philip Lovin Elliott, who went to his eternal reward April 14, 1961. I was with him a few minutes before he moved out of "this old house." He was jubilant and happy that morning. As I look back, I believe he knew something great was in store for him. There was. His coronation experience. We feel his presence here at Gardner-Webb, and on every hand are evidences of his faith and work. However, we must be reminded that the death of a Christian is never a tragedy; it is always a victory. Let us praise God for Dr. Elliott and remember Mrs. Elliott and the children in our prayers daily!

Dr. Poston

Now we must look to the future. Gardner-Webb faces her most glorious and effective days. Our campaign manager from Marts and Lundy said last year that Gardner-Webb has greater support from the friends and surrounding areas than any other college with which he has worked — including such colleges as Yale and Harvard. With your help and prayers we will make Gardner-Webb one of the greatest colleges to be found.

Please pray for us this year especially. With a new administration and the greatest number of applications ever, we must face some major decisions. It is evident that we cannot accept all who apply for admission to Gardner-Webb.

We are open to suggestions. Come to visit us soon.

Prayerfully yours,

E. Eugene Poston

ABOUT THIS ISSUE . . .

The tell of time: Death came to Dr. Elliott on April 14. For many of us, this untimely occurrence marked the end of an era, because for many of us the life of the College was Dr. Elliott's tenure. As someone has observed, "All of us died a little when Dr. Elliott died." The story of his death is in this issue of the QUARTERLY.

A new day: As Dr. Poston has observed, we must look to the future and devote our energies to building a quality school here at Boiling Springs. Dr. Poston's administration promises to build on the strong foundation that Dr. Elliott's eighteen-year tenure established. Dr. Poston writes his first page for our alumni quarterly. The story of his appointment is also in these pages.

Alumni, Attention!: We of the QUARTERLY appreciate the response to the questionnaire appearing on the back cover of the February issue. Mrs. Nancy Griffin reports that she received much information that she would not otherwise have obtained. Therefore, we are running the questionnaire a second time, in hope that many more of you will make this small effort to be loyal to your Alma Mater. We're asking that you provide two additional bits of information: a date for your questionnaire and names and ages of children.

We also had a good response to our "former faculty questionnaire." We'll be using this information for future issues. A few of our "alumni faculty" news notes appear in this issue.

May Day: The latest edition of Gardner-Webb royalty appears in the very center of this issue.

Victor and Sports: Victor, the school's Bulldog mascot, is growing into a fine specimen of canine manhood. Check his progress by the photograph in this issue. Spring sports sketches accompany Victor's progress report.

Dedications and Tributes: Two important dedication ceremonies recently were held on the campus. Webb Administration Building was dedicated, and Mrs. Elma H. Pollock was honored by the yearbook dedication. In this issue several tributes are paid to the memory of the late Phil Elliott.

ON THE COVER . . .

On April 18, Dr. E. Eugene Poston became the eighth president of Gardner-Webb College. It is with pleasure that we honor him in his new position with our cover page this issue. Previous presidents: P. L. Elliott—1943-61; J. R. Cantrell—1939-43; George J. Burnett—1936-39; A. C. Lovelace—1935-36; James L. Jenkins—1932-35; Zeno Wall—1930-32; and James Blaine Davis—1928-30.

News From Former Faculty Members

Perhaps you have often wondered what became of that English instructor who could cut a theme to bits, that history professor who gave such awful examinations, or that French teacher who was a demon with French verbs. Listed below are a few of the former teachers who were kind enough to return questionnaires to us. We'll try to keep you informed of the whereabouts of other "faculty alumni" in future issues of the QUARTERLY.

Jennie E. Smith, who taught history in 1937-46, is financial field secretary of Kingswood School and Children's Home in Morristown, Tenn.

Marjorie Crisp, who taught health and physical education, and was dean of women, 1935-42, is assistant professor, head of physical education for women at Wake Forest College in Winston-Salem.

Dr. Eugene W. Vosecky, who taught business subjects, 1949-57, is associate professor of the business department at Western Carolina College in Cullowhee. He and Mrs. Vosecky (Catherine Jenkins '40) have three children, Jeanne, 12; Kate, 10; and Bill, 5.

Rinda Goode McBrayer (Mrs. James H. '15), who taught commercial subjects, 1931-41, is supervising procurement clerk at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Langley Research Center, Langley Field, Va. She and her husband, the late Dr. James H. McBrayer, '15, have one son, James H. Jr., '40.

Richard M. Rice, who taught biology, chemistry, and physical education for men, and coached football, basketball, and baseball, 1936-39, is personnel director at Union Bleachery in Greenville, S. C.

Adelaide P. Bostick, who taught English and psychology, 1936-39, is a retired teacher, living in Louisville, Ky. She types and edits theses for teachers taking Master's degrees at the University of Louisville.

The Rev. and Mrs. Horace Greeley Hammett (Lorene Woody) '21, live in Columbia, S. C. He taught English, mathematics, and athletics, 1926-29, and is now assistant general secretary-treasurer of the General Board of South Carolina Baptist Convention in Columbia. She taught piano and voice, 1927-29, and is now a homemaker and mother. They have two sons, Orin Woody, 30; and Lamar Gibbs, 24.

Robert L. Flynn, who taught speech and drama, 1957-59, is technician and instructor in playwriting at the Baylor Theater, Baylor University, Waco, Texas. He and his wife have two daughters, Deidre Siobhan, 3; and Brigid Erin, 2.

Richard C. Barnett, who taught history, 1956-58, is a graduate student of the University of North Carolina and is doing research for his Ph. D. dissertation in London, England. This fall he will be on the history faculty at Wake Forest College. Mrs. Barnett, the former Betty May Tribble, who taught French and Latin, 1957-58, is a teacher of French and Latin at Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem. They have one daughter, Amelia Carlton, 2.

Our Alumni President Speaks

Dear Alumni and Friends of Gardner-Webb:

On May 27, 1961, at 6:30 p.m., we held our thirty-second Annual Alumni Banquet. In 1928, the school was opened as a junior college with J. Blaine Davis as its first president and J. D. Huggins as the dean. In June, 1942, the trustees changed the name of the institution to Gardner-Webb Junior College. In 1946, the College was admitted into the Baptist family of colleges, and the charter was changed to conform to the constitution of the North Carolina Baptist State Convention.

The enrollment has increased from 169 in 1942, to the present enrollment of 639. The total assets of the College have increased from $297,866.00 in 1942, to more than three million dollars at the present time.

On May 4 the Baptist State Convention held a special session at Greensboro to consider the report of the Committee on Advance for the Baptist colleges. The committee recommended that the sum of forty-five million dollars be set as a goal for our colleges during the next few years, of which Gardner-Webb was to receive five million dollars. However, the Convention failed to approve a cooperative Baptist fund-raising campaign, leaving each individual college free to conduct its money-raising projects. I sincerely hope that every loyal Baptist in North Carolina and especially in this area will support Gardner-Webb in its efforts to raise funds for capital outlay or other projects for the betterment of the College.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish," and it may well be said that where there is no vision, our Baptist colleges will perish, and if our Baptist institutions perish, our Baptist denomination will likewise perish.

Had it not been for the vision, efforts and contributions of the late Honorable O. Max Gardner and his family, Gardner-Webb College, in all probability, would not be in existence today. It takes more than the overflow from a unified budget to finance our great colleges. If our colleges are to receive "what's left over," I am afraid for their future.

I often heard the late Professor J. D. Huggins say, "Hitch your wagon to a star." Seldom do men reach higher goals than they set for themselves and their institutions. It has also been said, "Low aim, not failure, is crime."

Gardner-Webb and this section of North Carolina have suffered a great loss in the passing of Dr. Philip Lovin Elliott, who gave such devoted, unselfish, and capable service to the College and the Baptist denomination. We must now join hands with our new president, Dr. Eugene Poston, and under his capable leadership and dedicated spirit, march onward to greater and nobler things for Gardner-Webb College and the hosts of young boys and girls it is now serving and will serve and bless in the years to come.

Sincerely,
A. A. Powell

Mr. Powell

HONOR STUDENTS DESIGNATED

Tillie Wilson of Lattimore and Bob Blankenship of Canton were designated chief marshals when honor students were tapped May 3 in a candlelight ceremony at the chapel hour.

The dozen other students who were tapped into the Marshal Club, the honor organization at Gardner-Webb, were Joseph Deaton, Greensboro; Judy Flake, Wadesboro; Mrs. Teresa Hamrick Huggins, Boiling Springs; Donnie Hyatt, Gaffney, S. C.; Jo Lee Loveland, Shelby; James McAlister, Jr., Boiling Springs; Jeane McPherson, Greensboro; Robert Philyaw, Lenoir; Linda Gail Thompson, Gastonia; Joel Walker, Lattimore; Marcia White, Forest City; and Jim McSwain, Lattimore.

Students are selected for membership by faculty vote based on leadership, service, and character. Only students with a "B" average are eligible.

The fourteen students who were elected will serve as active marshals at official school functions.

Named inactive marshals were Jerry Beane, Ray Clarke, Doris Cranford, Joe Dockery, Mrs. Ellaree Elrod, Robert Glasgow, Carolyn Hawkins, Nancy Hildebran, Judy Poston, Dale Spangler, Loretta Spirlin, Philip Turner, Betsy Hope Lee.

MISS JACKIE JONES, QUEEN

"MAY DAY" IS BIG SUCCESS

"Alice in Wonderland" was the theme of the May Day program, traditional spring festival at the College, held on May 6. This year marked about the thirtieth time that the program has been held.

Miss Jackie Jones of Shelby reigned as queen for the occasion. She was escorted by Jerry Walker of Lenoir, who was elected king by popular student vote.

CLASSICAL LANGUAGE CLUB NEW ON CAMPUS

Phate McSwain, Jr., ministerial student from Mooresboro, heads the newly organized Classical Language Club at the College. Students of Latin and Greek are eligible for membership. Other officers are Floyd Beaty, vice-president; Marcia White, secretary; and Peggy Hartley, treasurer.

The Club was organized for purposes of providing an opportunity for the students to improve themselves culturally and scholastically in classical language courses through the study of the Greek and Roman civilizations. Language professors are advisors.

Besides Alice, other "Alice in Wonderland" characters entertained about 500 spectators for an hour: a white rabbit, a mouse, a duck, a Cheshire cat, Tweedle-Dee and Tweedle-Dum, a live flower garden (a ballet), and a group of precision-marching cards parading in honor of their majesty the Queen of Hearts.

Miss Inez Ewing of Rockingham, was maid of honor, and was escorted by Bob Blankenship of Canton.

Children attendants were Robin Stikeleather, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grier Stikeleather of Statesville, and Rickie Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Griffin, Jr. of Boiling Springs.

The following attendants, in blue full length formal gowns, and escorts, in formal dress, observed the program in a setting of greenery and flowers:

EIGHTH PRESIDENT

DR. E. EUGENE POSTON ASSUMES PRESIDENCY

Dr. E. Eugene Poston, '43, head of the department of religion, was unanimously named president of the College on March 13 by the board of trustees. He was scheduled to take office Aug. 1, 1961, but upon the death of Dr. Phil Elliott on April 14, Dr. Poston assumed the presidency April 18, after the executive committee of the board took that action.

Dr. Poston, 42, a Cleveland County native, joined the Gardner-Webb teaching staff in 1959 as the head of the department of religion. He resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist Church, Jonesboro, Ga., to accept the appointment.

He is a cum laude graduate of Wake Forest College and holds the B. D., Th. M. and Th. D degrees from Southern Seminary, Lousiville, Ky.

Upon his appointment to the presidency, Dr. Poston said, "It's the greatest challenge I've ever faced, but with unity among trustees and faculty, I see the greatest future for Gardner-Webb of any college."

While a student at Wake Forest and at Southern Seminary, Dr. Poston held a number of pastorates. He served as pastor at the Wallace Baptist Church, Wallace, for seven years. A church in that area was named for him and his family.

The new president has served in numerous capacities in Southern Baptist work. He was president in 1956 of the N. C. Baptist Pastors' Conference. Previously he had served as moderator of the Wilmington Baptist Association. He served on the general board of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina for two years in 1956-57.

Serving on the special committee to search out a new president were J. R. Dover, Jr., '11; Mrs. Rush Stroup, chairman of the board of trustees; Mrs. O. Max Gardner; Clifford Hamrick, '22; Claude Hinson; and Leonard Lowe.

Of Dr. Poston's appointment Mrs. Stroup said, "He is capable, consecrated, and dedicated, in addition to being fully qualified for this position."

Poston was married in 1939 to the former Dorothy Jenkins '43, also a Cleveland County native. They have three children: Steve, 14; Gloria, 12; and Beth, 9. Mrs. Poston is a graduate of Wake Forest and has done graduate work at Appalachian State Teachers College. She teaches sixth grade in Marion School, Shelby.

APRIL 18

COLLEGE VISITATION DAY OBSERVED

College Visitation Day was observed April 18 with a special program in the E. B. Hamrick Auditorium and a banquet following in the Gardner Building. "The Advance Program for the Colleges" was the theme. Claude Gaddy, Dr. I. G. Greer, and Dr. Douglas Branch from the Baptist State Convention in Raleigh were special guests for the program.

Dr. Eugene Poston, who made his first appearance as president of the College only minutes after the executive committee met to take that action to step up his date of office, was the principal speaker.

College Visitation Day has been a special feature at the College for about six years.

MAY 27

ALUMNI GATHER FOR ANNUAL BANQUET

Around 300 Gardner - Webb alumni gathered for the Annual Alumni Banquet May 27 in the College cafeteria.

Classes in reunion (1912, 1917, 1922, 1927, 1932, 1937, 1942, 1947, 1952, 1957) and the Class of 1961 were recognized.

A special tribute was paid to the late Philip Elliott.

Claude Gaddy, director of the Division of Christian Education of the Baptist State Convention, was guest speaker.

It's always good to see so many of our alumni return for this special occasion. Next year make a special effort to include this annual banquet in your plans.

REPORT ON "VICTOR"

Mr. Joseph Godwin, guardian for Victor, the school's Bulldog mascot, reports that the school's No. 1 canine has consumed 750 pounds of food at a cost of no less than $55.

Godwin also says that Victor has never growled at anyone—that he is "all goodness and kindness and love." For some idea of the way a dog grows up fast, compare the photograph below with the one on the cover of the November QUARTERLY.

Webb Administration Building Dedicated

Members of the O. Max Gardner family were honored guests of the College, when the Webb Administration Building was officially dedicated at a special program May 12.

O. Max Gardner, Jr., was paid a special tribute by the Rev. M. O. Owens, Jr., who was the main speaker for the occasion. Ralph Gardner made the presentation of the building to the trustees, administration, and students, with Mrs. Rush Stroup, Dr. Eugene Poston, and Jerry Walker responding for these respective groups. Mrs. O. Max Gardner was also present.

Portions of the dedicatory service follow: "To the principle of Christian education and to our belief that this principle will bring light, healing, and peace to mankind . . . In grateful remembrance of all those who have labored here before us in search for truth, without whose sacrifice and devotion we could not have built, with gratitude for those present who were instrumental in providing this building, WE DEDICATE THIS BUILDING."

Mr. Owens, in tracing something of the history of the College and its benefactors, paid special tribute in his lofty speech to the Gardner family. "On this . . . occasion . . . we are especially mindful of the contributions of one family—the Gardners. Not only does the school perpetuate the family name in its name—Gardner-Webb—but for the past 19 years the generosity and interest of this family has been the measure of the progress of the school."

Mrs. Robert Gidney sang "Bless This House" to close the dedicatory service.

AN OPEN LETTER TO ALUMNI

NOTE: As a result of the Self-Study program now under way at Gardner-Webb College for the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the graduates of several recent classes were mailed a questionnaire in an effort to help the College measure the effectiveness of its teaching program. The Southern Association requires each member college to conduct such a study every ten years. Mrs. Dorothy W. Hamrick, our registrar, writes the following letter concerning this matter.

Dear Alumni:

I would like to take this occasion to express my appreciation to many of you who have recently responded to a questionnaire I mailed out to you in connection with the Self-Study program which Gardner-Webb is participating in for the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This, as you know, is the agency which accredits us as a college. I wish I had time to write each of you a personal letter thanking you for your courtesies and responding to your personal notes. I do appreciate them very, very much.

May I request also of those who have been too busy with other things or perhaps have laid the questionnaire aside for the moment if you will please take time out right away to complete the form and return it to me. You might check the mail shelf at the home of your parents if it did not reach your current address. It is not too late yet. In fact, I shall be sending others out to some of you who have not yet received one. Your responses are greatly needed for a more meaningful evaluation. If you are a graduate of the past five years and did not receive a questionnaire, write for one, and I shall be glad to send it to you.

Again, thank you for your kind response and cooperation. Greetings and best wishes to all of you.

Sincerely,

(Mrs.) Dorothy W. Hamrick

PHIL ELLIOTT MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP LOAN FUND ESTABLISHED

The family of the late Phil Elliott have established a Philip Lovin Elliott Memorial Scholarship Loan Fund, to which alumni and friends of the family and College are invited to contribute. The family requested that gifts be made to this Fund in lieu of flowers for the funeral.

Miss Kathleen Davis, secretary to the president, reports that more than 125 gifts have been received, amounting to $1,193.91. Names of persons memorialized and all donors are entered in the Book of Memory, although gifts to the Elliott Fund are not income for the Book of Memory.

25 YEARS OF SERVICE

Mrs. Pollock Honored By Yearbook Dedication

Mrs. Elma Harper Pollock, celebrating her 25th year of service to the College, was honored with the dedication of "The 1961 Anchor," on May 10. She was presented the initial copy of the book by Editor Joyce Philbeck, who read the dedicatory remarks from the book, a portion of which follows:

"For twenty-five years Mrs. Elma Harper Pollock has removed stumbling blocks so that the paths taken by students here have been made easier to travel."

She was recognized for her loyalty to the College and her admirable qualities as a teacher.

A special feature of the yearbook was a three-page memorial to the late Phil Elliott.

Bound in red with lettering of footprints in white sketched in black, the book presented the theme "trails and pathways."

DEATH TAKES DR. PHIL ELLIOTT

Dr. Philip Lovin Elliott, president of the College since 1943, died suddenly in his office on April 14. Death occurred just a few minutes after he arrived for work at the new Webb Administration Building.

The 69-year-old president, who had previously suffered a heart attack in 1954, was scheduled to retire Aug. 1, one year ahead of the mandatory retirement date.

Ironically, Dr. Elliott had made his farewell remarks to his faculty at their monthly meeting April 4.

"To me, these have been glorious years," he said. "We haven't done all we've dreamed, as I come to the end of the official journey . . ."

He continued, "I know a little bit of loneliness, disappointments, heartaches, hurts . . . and being on the brink."

In conclusion, "It is my hope that this institution, under God, with your dedication, scholarship, and devotion, will be dedicated to the production of human beings that shall be of value and have integrity."

Elliott came to the presidency of the College from Western Carolina College, where he was the head of the English department. He had previously held the same position, along with the deanship and vice-presidency at different times, at Mars Hill College.

He was a native of Wayside, N. C., the son of the late Isaac Bartley Elliott and Rachel Diana Jenkins Elliott.

He graduated from Mars Hill College, received the B. A. degree from Wake Forest College, and the M. A. from the University of North Carolina. He did further graduate work at Johns Hopkins University and at Duke University. Carson - Newman College awarded him an honorary Ed.D. degree in 1951, Wake Forest the honorary LL.D. in 1959. He was ordained a Baptist minister in 1915 and served as pastor of a number of churches.

Dr. Elliott . . . just before his death.

An unusual quiet prevailed on the College campus on the morning of Elliott's death. Classes were suspended that Friday until Monday morning.

Funeral services, attended by hundreds, were held April 16 at the Boiling Springs Baptist Church, with the Rev. T. Max Linnens, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Cleveland Memorial Park.

Mrs. Etta Carringer Elliott, his wife; three daughters, Ruth Eleanor (Mrs. Taylor Oakes), Roanoke Rapids; Diana Jayne (Mrs. Ed Grady) '44, New York City; Rachel (Mrs. Geoffrey Churchill) '58, Chapel Hill; and one son, Phil Jr., '54, Athens, Ga., survive.

Across The Desk

By Michael H. Palmer, Quarterly Editor

Mr. Palmer

Students, faculty, and friends of the College were saddened by the death of Dr. Phil Elliott on April 14. As the Rev. T. Max Linnens observed in the program for the Boiling Springs Baptist Church on April 9, Dr. Elliott "was possessed by a dream . . . a dream of a fellowship of learning where young minds could be stretched and young souls fired in an atmosphere of greatness. But his deeper mark has been made in the lives of the faculty and church members among whom he lived, and in the minds and hearts of the students which were touched by his spirit."

Surely every student who enrolled at Gardner-Webb during Dr. Elliott's eighteen-year tenure here was touched by this greatness of spirit. His first interest was the educational welfare of the students who made their ways to Boiling Springs. Around these students, with his leadership qualities, he built a college, a college that he snatched from the brink of extinction.

He dreamed big and he dreamed solid for this school that he helped to construct, to mold, to lead, to inspire. And all the little dreams took their places within this big dream for the institution whose leadership he took in hand in 1943. Into Gardner-Webb he poured his strengths, his abilities, his imagination—indeed his life these eighteen years.

He was a big man—big in heart, mind, spirit; he was a great man, in the strictest sense of the word.

Upon the death of Dr. Elliott, the responsibilities of the presidency fell on the shoulders of Dr. E. Eugene Poston, who was unanimously elected to his position by the board of trustees on March 13. He was scheduled to take office Aug. 1, but the untimely death of Dr. Elliott prompted the executive committee of the board of trustees to name him president effective April 18.

Dr. Poston brings to his new position the vigor of youth, a wisdom gained from intellectual curiosity and fruitful living, love for young people, vision arising from keen insight, and unfailing trust in God.

Even with these admirable qualities, Dr. Poston's responsibilities will not be easy. He will need the loyalty of faculty members, students, and each of his fellow alumni in fulfilling his duties.

Let us, like the committee who searched him out and the trustees who named him unanimously, pledge to him our full support in the challenge that lies ahead.

Editing the QUARTERLY this school year has been rewarding, to say the least. One of the best gauges of the quality of a school is the citizens that it graduates. It has been my rare privilege to witness, through news of alumni that comes to this office, the true justification for Gardner-Webb College: men and women whose lives have been enriched and made more meaningful by their two years here.
